

How's the water?

You wouldn't let your loved ones drink from copper drinking straws – so why would you consider an old fashioned copper piping system?

The quality of water we use in our homes today is a major concern to all of us. But one of the most overlooked features in a new home is the piping system that delivers the drinking water. Frequently we filter our water, only to have metals and chemicals leach back in as it passes through the pipes.

Zurn PEX offers a state-of-the-art flexible plumbing system that delivers clean water throughout your home, free from chemicals and harmful irritants, unlike other systems available in the market today.

The Zurn PEX Plumbing System is certified by the National Sanitation Foundation (NSF) to ensure that clean, pure water stays clean and pure.
